Project Description	Since the start of the COVID–19 public health emergency in January 2020, County employees (essential workers) have put their physical wellbeing at risk to meet the daily needs of our community and to continue to provide essential services. In the course of this work, many essential workers have contracted or have been exposed to COVID–19. Furthermore, as noted in the American Rescue Plan Act, many essential workers are people of color or low-wage workers. These workers, in particular, have borne a disproportionate share of the health and economic impacts of the pandemic. The American Rescue Plan Act (2021, ARPA) authorizes Premium Pay to essential employees who have been and continue to be relied on to maintain continuity of operations of essential critical infrastructure sectors, including those who are critical to protecting the health and wellbeing of their communities. All county employees are deemed eligible workers performing essential work during the COVID–19 public health emergency performing essential work. 	emergency. To ensure that Premium Pay is targeted to workers that faced or face heightened risks due to the character of their work, the ARPA guidance defines essential work as work involving regular in-person interactions or regular physical handling of items that were also handled by others. A worker would not be engaged in essential work and, accordingly, is not eligible to receive Premium Pay for telework performed from a residence. See American Rescue Plan Act, (2021), Interim Final Rule, 31 CFR Part 35, Subpart A § 35.3 Definitions.

Project Description	Health services play an important role in the lives of low-income rural residents. Unfortunately, many rural communities lack access to adequate health services for their residents. As the COVID-19 pandemic surges in rural communities, the need for closing the rural-urban health gap is more critical than ever. The purchase of two Mobile Medical Sprinter Vans would give the department the ability to perform Covid 19 testing, vaccinations (Moderna and Pfizer), and boosters in these rural areas efficiently. Hidalgo County was impacted by COVID-19 pandemic and continues to impact our area.

Project Description	. Currently, 26.9% of Hidalgo County’s population lives below the poverty line, and the pandemic’s impact on the county’s public health is evident. The need for additional first responders has become apparent with the ongoing public health emergency. The rising COVID-19 cases have resulted in a rise in paramedic services and have taken a toll on emergency response services. With an increase in COVID-19 cases, a 2019 study showed a job outlook of a 6% increase for EMTs and Paramedics. A recent 2020 study showed a job outlook of 11%. This increase demonstrates the rise in demand for EMTs and Paramedics due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Providing a first responder training program will be an investment in the underserved Hidalgo County population and will produce more first responders. The need for first responders is dire, and the training program will ensure underserved residents who have been impacted by the COVID-19 public health emergency continue to receive critical lifesaving services. This initiative will provide funds to the City of Mercedes to initiate a paramedic training program in Hidalgo County. This program has been developed in conjunction with every municipally operated emergency medical service in Hidalgo County, including the City of Mercedes, the City of Mission, the City of Palmview, the City of Pharr, the City of Weslaco, and the City of Alton. The municipalities collectively agreed that the City of Mercedes is best suited to serve as the operations center for this initiative. The project will assist in the tuition and training materials for the paramedic candidates and other costs associated with the training. Hidalgo County OEM has already partnered with the Texas A&amp;M University System, the Texas Workforce Commission and the City of Mercedes to provide the paramedic project. This project also provides an economic and regional benefit opportunity as it creates emergency medicine jobs for our community and increases the supply of trained individuals. This project provides modern education techniques and opportunities for advancement. This program includes training for County and City personnel to reach licensed paramedic statuses and serve our communities as trained paramedic first responders. Licensed paramedics are critical in providing quality emergency medical services to our residents and businesses in different emergencies. The use of this project in conjunction with our other current projects will be critical in order to reduce the effects of Covid-19 and increase our emergency medical response capabilities to our community. This new paramedic training program not only provides an opportunity, but also is an investment into our residents in Hidalgo County. Newly trained paramedics in this program will be able to serve different cities and rural communities in Hidalgo County who may have difficulty accessing medical care and treatment. It is our duty as local government to continue to enhance opportunities and serve the community to improve the quality of life and medical care for residents. Hidalgo

	County is excited to experience the benefits of this project along with other projects and plans to continue these projects in the future.

Project Description	Because of the importance of internet accessibility in today's technologically-driven world, this project aims to fund a study that will detail the County's Internet accessibility throughout its jurisdiction. Hidalgo County will utilize study results to identify areas that meet the criteria for unincorporated, underserved or unserved, maximize resources, and expand broadband capability to these impacted areas to improve health and life outcomes during the ongoing COVID-19 public health emergency. Governments with high capacity to use data and evidence to administer programs are more likely to be responsive to the needs of their community, more transparent about their community impact, and more resilient to emergencies such as the pandemic and its economic impacts. Treasury recognizes that collecting high-quality data and developing community-driven, evidence-based programs requires resources to hire and build the capacity of staff, adopt new processes and systems, and use new technology and tools in order to effectively develop, execute, and evaluate programs. The Final Rule states that recipients may use SLFRF funds to address the data, evidence, and program administration needs of recipients, including "capacity building resources to support using data and evidence in designing, executing, and evaluating programs...that respond to the public health emergency and its negative economic impacts.

Project Description	The spread of COVID-19 resulted in widespread social distancing measures. Outdoor activities pose a lower risk of spread and provide opportunities for physical activity that may help improve overall well-being. The Hidalgo County Precinct 3 5K Mansion Linear Trail Project aims to build stronger communities through investing in neighborhood development by utilizing existing resources (Drainage District, Moorfield Road ROW, Mansion property) to construct a 5 kilometer trail. The trail will include exercise stations, rest stops and other features that encourage physical exercise as this is already a venue for walk/run races and events and passes next to three public schools which will provide easy access for school exercise programs or events. This trail will service a larger portion of the Hidalgo County community and provide safe recreational spaces for constituents living in, near and around Low and Moderate Income (LMI) locations, and support people's physical, social, emotional, and mental health.

Project Description	According to the Center for Disease Control (CDC), the COVID-19 public health emergency exacerbated the health and well-being inequities that previously existed within marginalized communities, including Hispanics and those living in poverty. In fact, research continues to support that minority communities have a higher propensity of being negatively impacted by the pandemic especially in the following areas: income, education, and health. In 2021 Bonham Elementary, found south of the expressway, closed its doors and immediately displaced families from accessing critical resources schools often bring to neighborhoods. With transportation issues plaguing south McAllen, especially after the pandemic, proximity is an important factor when meeting the needs of our most vulnerable

	populations. With schools closing in the summer and holidays, many families are left with no option for quality and cost effective childcare during out of school time. Investing in infrastructure south of the expressway in McAllen gives families a safe alternative to leaving children at home while parents work- a response to the public health emergency, the aftereffects and negative economic impacts for the safety and well-being of children as well as a solution to workforce.

	The final rule aims to promote and streamline the provision of assistance to individuals and communities in greatest need, particularly communities that have been historically underserved and have experienced disproportionate impacts of the COVID-19 crisis. <sup>1</sup> For historically marginalized populations (those excluded from mainstream

Project Description	health, economic, and/or educational resources) all the general challenges encountered with the pandemic certainly apply, but there are additional barriers. The greatest is communication—getting information or access to available resources is typically more difficult for people with multiple barriers. Research has noted that Hispanics were disproportionately harmed by the economic fallout as a result of the effects of the COVID 19 virus; they accounted for 23 percent of the initial job loss.<sup>2</sup> The coronavirus did not discriminate based on race, but without action, its economic fallout will continue to disproportionately affect residents of Hidalgo County which is predominately Hispanic. To that end, Hidalgo County will enlist an Administrative Assistant IV to promote and streamline the provision of programs and services that address or mitigate the impacts of COVID-19. Hidalgo County is committed to ensuring that the community receives the support needed to access relief programs due to the economic downturn caused by the COVID-19 pandemic and will work closely under the supervision of the Director of Economic Development to develop programs, outreach and engagement resources that would positively impact marginalized populations.

Type of capital expenditures, based on the following enumerated uses	Parks, green spaces, recreational facilities, sidewalks
	The COVID-19 public health emergency has had and continues to have a negative impact on the Hidalgo County community. The COVID-19 public health emergency “has been described as a syndemic of COVID-19 and chronic diseases.” During the pandemic, obesity has been identified as a contributing factor to morbidity and mortality associated with COVID-19. According to research from Texas A&amp;M University, the obesity rate in Hidalgo County is 42.9%, well above the state prevalence of 29.9%. One reason for this rate increase is that “40% of the population doesn’t have “reasonable” access to places for physical activity.” The access to exercise opportunity rate in Hidalgo county is 60.30%. Moreover, health authorities should also target sedentary behaviors and lack of physical activity to reduce the risk of chronic diseases and severe COVID-19 outcomes. Furthermore, the COVID-19 public health emergency has affected physical and mental health by creating challenges and barriers for the community. According to the Kaiser Family Foundation (KFF), based on a Health Tracking Poll from July 2020, it has been found that “many adults are reporting specific negative impacts on their physical and mental health and well-being, such as difficulty sleeping (36%) or eating (32%), increases in alcohol consumption or substance use (12%), and worsening chronic conditions (12%), due to worry and stress over the coronavirus.” During the COVID-19 public health emergency, several events potentially continue to affect the mental health and well-being of the community. At first, the uncertainty about the virus and the fear of getting it causes anxiety and tension. Restrictions and social distancing have led to bouts of depression and anxiety for people of all ages. According to a research article in September 2021 from Sustain, “to maintain mental and physical health during periods of lockdown and quarantine, people often engaged in outdoor, physically distanced activities such as visits to parks and greenspace.”

The measures adopted during the COVID-19 public health emergency made many people work remotely. Students continued with their academic obligations through virtual education, sitting in front of the computer for long periods of time. This has caused people to create sedentary habits and face more severe COVID-19 outcomes.

According to KFF, during the COVID-19 public health emergency, about “4 in 10 adults in the U.S. have reported symptoms of anxiety or depressive disorder, a share that has been largely consistent, up from one in ten adults who reported these symptoms from January to June 2019.” An increase in anxiety disorder and depressive disorder has been shown from January 2019 to January 2021 from 11% to 41.1%. Anxiety and depression will potentially continue to increase as the COVID-19 public health emergency is outgoing, due to health threats, job loss, reduced income, social isolation, etc. Recreational spaces such as parks and hike & bike trails have essential physical and mental health benefits, and encouraging people to be active could help many cope with ongoing stress and avoid psychological illness. Every session of physical activity reduces symptoms of depression and anxiety, so being active every day can be a partial antidote to the stress of the pandemic.

In the same way, social isolation has arranged the prevention of the spread of COVID-19, this forced the community to change the way of doing physical activities for those who exercise in gyms, clubs, or outdoors. In this sense, the recommendation of health professionals is to continue exercising, using the elements that each person has at their disposal and in the space in which they live to avoid the risks of a sedentary life.

The Hidalgo County community is in need of more recreational spaces to engage with nature, practice physical activity, and avoid physical and mental health problems that can potentially exacerbate the effects and outcomes of the COVID-19 virus. “There are 12 Hidalgo County Parks in the state of Texas, serving a population of 839,539 people in an area of 1,571 square miles. There is 1 Park per 69,961 people, and 1 Park per 130 square miles. In Texas, Hidalgo County is ranked 67th of 254 counties in Parks per capita.”

The lack of recreational spaces is a big issue during the COVID-19 public health emergency. Many low-income communities do not live near parks or hike & bike trails which makes it difficult for these communities to engage with nature and practice physical activities.

The importance of physical activity in these moments of isolation is very important, people should avoid habits that lead to a sedentary lifestyle and take active breaks with gentle physical exercises as this is crucial for the overall health and well-being of the Hidalgo County residents.

Explanation Of Why A Capital Expenditure Is Appropriate

Capital Expenditure Justification

Hidalgo County Precinct 2 Recreational Trails Connectivity and Development Project will improve and connect the accessibility and function of existing trails to constituents all around Hidalgo County, especially those living in, near, and around Qualified Census Tracts (QCT). Addressing the lack of recreational spaces and the benefits it offers to the community during the COVID-19 public health emergency is crucial as recognized by the Treasury's Coronavirus State and Local Fiscal Recovery Funds (CSLFRF) Interim Final Rule. Parks and other recreational spaces are methods of creating stronger communities, addressing social determinants of health, and confronting public health disparities.

Parks, hike & bike trails and other recreational spaces such as the existing Hidalgo County Precinct 2 Regional Hike and Bike Trail have served a critical function in the physical and mental health of individuals, addressing social determinants of health and confronting public health disparities, particularly for low-income communities. According to the Interim Final Rule "investments in neighborhood features, including parks, recreation facilities, sidewalks, and healthy food access, can work to improve physical and mental health outcomes."

The extension to the Regional Linear Park aims to promote wellness among low- to moderate-income communities by providing more recreational space for exercising and socializing. As a direct outcome, the improvement of the Regional Linear Park will improve the overall quality of life of the Hidalgo County residents.

Engaging in recreational activities, such as visiting parks or hiking & bike trails, generates multiple benefits for the health of the community, whatever their age or gender. Physical activity refers to the performance of physical exercises, but it is important to have in mind that physical activity is considered to be any movement of the body produced by voluntary muscular action and involving energy expenditure.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), neighborhood-built environments include all of the physical parts of where we live and work (e.g., homes, buildings, streets, open spaces, and infrastructure). "The built environment influences a person's level of physical activity. For example, inaccessible or nonexistent sidewalks and bicycle or walking paths contribute to sedentary habits. These habits lead to poor health outcomes such as obesity, cardiovascular disease, diabetes, and some types of cancer."

Communities near recreational and green spaces can have a drastic and long-term positive impact on physical and mental health. The effects of green areas are not immediate, but sustainable over a long period of time. Parks and green spaces are vital resources to improve well-being.

Having access to a park makes it easy to start or maintain a lifestyle that focuses on being active and healthy. "People of all ages and abilities enjoy higher levels of health and

	well-being when they have nature nearby in parks, gardens, greenways, naturalized schoolyards and playgrounds, and natural landscaping around homes and workplaces.” Whether you're looking for a way to get active and regular exercise or need an escape to relax, a community with a park and green spaces provides a mix of different equipment and services to suit everyone's needs. Maintaining contact with the natural world continues to be a critical factor in the health and development of our community. Getting fresh air, being physically active, and exercising curiosity in nature are just the beginning of the benefits of living near green spaces. “Access to nature has been related to lower levels of mortality and illness, higher levels of outdoor physical activity, restoration from stress, a greater sense of well-being, and greater social capital.” Public parks serve an important societal function as recreational spaces for diverse communities. However, access to parks and other recreational spaces is limited among disadvantaged people. Amid the COVID-19 public health emergency, the well-documented physical and mental health benefits can be crucial to the well-being of struggling constituents. In the age of isolation and social distancing, the ability to go outside and get some fresh air has never been so important. The capital expenditure for this project it’s crucial in order to extend and connect the existing hike &amp; bike trails throughout Hidalgo County and serve the entire community, especially those living in, near, and around QCT areas, to get all the benefits mentioned above. Comparison Of The Proposed Capital Expenditure Against Alternative Capital Expenditures The Regional Linear Park is an existing hike &amp; bike trail throughout Hidalgo County that currently provides connections to the cities of McAllen, the City of Pharr, and the City of San Juan. These trails provide enhanced connectivity through the extension of a major trail which is a safer environment for pedestrian traffic accessing schools, public buildings, parks, and other recreational areas. Most importantly, this trial is a big factor in the promotion of general exercise and a healthy lifestyle. Furthermore, the existing hike &amp; bike trails in Hidalgo County have proven to increase the quality of life of residents by improving their mental, and physical health. To this day, the Regional Linear Park is the most visited recreational area helping the Rio Grande Valley address one of the biggest problems for the future of Hidalgo County, which is obesity and all its associated illnesses. Extending the Regional Linear Park to the cities of Mission, McAllen, San Juan, and Hidalgo will provide access to the benefits of this new hike &amp; bike trails in the entire Hidalgo County.

In the course of this work, many essential workers have contracted or have been exposed to COVID-19. Furthermore, as noted in the American Rescue Plan Act, many essential workers are people of color or low-wage workers. These workers, in particular, have borne a disproportionate share of the health and economic impacts of the pandemic. The American Rescue Plan Act (2021, ARPA) authorizes Premium Pay to essential employees who have been and continue to be relied on to maintain continuity of operations of essential critical infrastructure sectors, including those who are critical to protecting the health and wellbeing of their communities. All county employees are deemed eligible workers performing essential work during the COVID-19 public health emergency performing essential work. Premium Pay is afforded to remunerate essential workers for the elevated health risks they have faced and continue to face during the public health emergency. To ensure that Premium Pay is targeted to workers that faced or face heightened risks due to the character of their work, the ARPA guidance defines essential work as work involving regular in-person interactions or regular physical handling of items that were also handled by others. A worker would not be engaged in essential work and, accordingly, is not eligible to receive Premium Pay for telework performed from a residence. See American Rescue Plan Act, (2021), Interim Final Rule, 31 CFR Part 35, Subpart A § 35.3 Definitions.
